From The Past . . .

Our Heritage . . .

Urbana's heritage is strong in character . . . rich in humor. It is punctuated with pathos . . . leavened with love of land and determined depths of courage. From the little and the mighty . . . much has been received—to be passed on.

Many tales about Urbana's past have been told of people who laughed . . . and lived . . . and loved—long before any of us were here. From those tales, a few have been selected to show how the colorful and kindly people who went before us . . . left an imprint of themselves to make Urbana better. These stories are merely fragments ripped from time. Not important in themselves . . . but to be cherished for the insight they give into the lives and times now gone.

A HOSPITABLE MAN . . .

June 20, 1833, found three commissioners in the area now known as Urbana . . . sent here by the State Legislature to set up a city to be called Urbana. This city was to be the county seat of a new county—Champaign. The new county, by act of the Legislature on February 20, 1833, was to be formed from the west end of Vermilion Conuty.

In those days, the people lived in settlements in the native timber along the streams. The largest settlement was in the Big Grove in the central part of the county. Settlements were also to be found on the Sangamon to the west, on the Kaskaskia and the Embarrass to the south, on the Salt Fork to the east. It was evident from the locations of the settlements that the county seat should be located near the Big Grove in the center of the county. A contest had started, therefore, between the settlers on the north of the Big Grove and the settlers on the south of the Big Grove . . . a contest for the location of the county seat.

After careful inspection, the commissioners selected the farm of Phillip Stanford as the site for Urbana. The Stanford farm was located in Section 27 of Somers Township, about half a mile east of the Birely farm which adjoins Route 45.

A group of local citizens and the three commissioners went out to drive the stake which would mark the founding of Urbana. One persuasive gentleman went along. He was a hospitable man—and determined.

Ur 12m Survey

When the stake was about to be driven into the land . . . he interrupted the proceedings . . . suggested that the ceremony be postponed until the next day . . . because dusk was rapidly approaching. He even invited the commissioners to his home . . . for hospitality . . . and rest. The three commissioners accepted. They went to his home—then a cabin built on a site directly behind the present Courier building.

Strangely enough . . . (details are not quite complete) . . . early the next morning—in the dusk before dawn—the commissioners and their host went out to drive the Urbana stake. But . . . they drove it on the spot where the courthouse now stands—several miles west and south of the previously determined site. Several miles closer to the hospitable gentleman's cabin.

Urbana had been founded.

The hospitable man? The eminent Isaac Busey.

A BEWILDERED BOY . . .

A child's trusting smile ended a life-time search for Dr. James K. Morrison—an early day Urbana doctor.

As a boy of seven . . . clad only in trousers and shirt . . . barefoot . . . wearing a little straw hat . . . he wandered away from home and onto a lake boat at Cleveland, Ohio.

When the crew discovered him, it was too late to put him ashore . . . until the boat docked at Chicago. In Chicago . . . the boat's captain saw to it that the lad was taken over by a charitable family. Kind as these people must have been . . . all their efforts to locate his parents were to no avail.

Eventually, the bewildered boy . . . who was to become a formidable medical force in Urbana's early battle against malaria . . . was placed in a home in Paxton. Later when he became a doctor . . . he located in Urbana.

Urbana City Hall

As a boy . . . he had been unable to locate his family . . . although his foster parents had tried. As a man . . . he longed to know about his childhood . . . parents . . . his possible brothers and sisters. He searched for many years . . . in vain.

As an old man of 80 . . . he was walking on a street in south Chicago. When . . . within a period of one-half hour . . . the three most important events in his life-long search took place:

A child ran up to him . . . took his hand . . . called him "Grandpa Morrison" . . . and asked him to go home with her.

He let the child take him to her home. There he met the child's real grandfather—his own identical twin brother.

Dr. Morrison also met, then, his younger sister. During his lifetime search from his home in Urbana, she lived for 10 years in Champaign.

SAINTS IN THE SADDLE . . .

Manly . . . rugged . . . sometimes "different" . . . always men of the Gospel the early circuit riders rode saintly in the saddle. To spread The Word among the hardy folk who challenged the new land . . . to put more backbone into the purpose of frontier life . . . circuit riders came galloping with the Gospel into central Illinois.

One rather eccentric pioneer preacher . . . Reverend Samuel Mapes . . . rode not a horse but a steer. He rode barefoot and carried a gun as he moved from settlement to settlement. Colorful of mein . . . pensive by nature . . . Reverend Mapes found more time for reflection as he rode his slow steer, with a bell hung from its neck . . . to punctuate his thoughts.

Another preacher . . . Reverend William I. Peters of the Salt Fork . . . preached around the county He would buy "spirits" by the barrel on the Wabash at 25 cents a gallon . . . and retail it so as to make 30 cents on a gallon. Pioneer folk found no objection to this practice. Instead . . . they considered it a religious duty to buy from "Uncle Billy." For, in this way, they made it possible for him to spread the Gospel.

Each . . . the Reverend Mapes and the Reverend Peters . . . wore "stars in his crown."

The Present . . . People And Places . . .

Urbana
Free Library . . .

Urbana's cultural striving reaches back to her earliest days. In the August 24, 1854 issue of the Urbana Union — a newspaper published from 1853 to 1854 — is an editorial by the editor, Mr. J. O. Cunningham. It seems that Mr. Cunningham didn't care for the way a literary society treated the part of the city hall which they used for a library. What irked Mr. Cunningham most was ". . . the broken bannister."

The records of that literary society seem to be lost. However, on Thursday evening, January 16, 1873, the Urbana Library Association was formed. The minutes of the first meeting include this statement:

"Pursuant to a call of the committee the subscribers to the stock of the Urbana Library Association met in Blackshaw's hall at 7½ (sic!) o'clock. The meeting organized by electing C. D. Webster chairman and J. W. Porter secretary."

The Association rented space in Mr. Frank Tiernan's building at a rate of $150 per year. Thus, the first formally-sponsored library appeared in Urbana.

Now Urbana has a library which was made possible through the generosity of several prominent citizens. Mrs. Mary E. Busey donated $35,000 in memory of her husband, General Samuel T. Busey, to construct the present building at Race and Elm Streets. Fred Eubeling, an original member of the Urbana Library Association and the owner of a local shoe store, willed $10,000 to the library to be invested for the purchase of books and magazines.

Another prominent name in the history of Urbana Free Library is Miss Minnie Jaques. The daughter of Frank Jaques, an original member of the Urbana Library board, she served as a member and as treasurer of the Urbana Free Library board for 50 years.

Urbana Free Library

Many have contributed money to the library. Others have given family-owned items of historical interest . . . so that the relics of Urbana's past may be preserved for the yet unborn.

The library offers many rare books . . . original papers important in the history of Urbana . . . a selection of books suited to all ages and all interests. It is open to the public Monday through Saturday.

URBANA POLICE DEPARTMENT

In the original code for the city of Urbana . . . it was illegal to "display or lead a monster through the streets." According to another old law, a car had to be preceded through the streets by a man . . . to warn the pedestrians. What the original lawmakers meant by "monster" seems to have faded into time. And . . . the early lawmakers never knew the "lingo" which includes such words as jaywalker, traffic light, and yield signs.

But . . . nowadays . . . the efficiency of Urbana's Police Department depends upon the 22 men who operate 3 radio-contact police cars. The University of Illinois police, also with three 2-way radio cars, operate on the same radio frequency as Urbana. The spirit of cooperation between these two units of law enforcement indicates the esteem in which the various parts of this community hold one another.

URBANA FIRE DEPARTMENT

One night in the history of Urbana . . . on the same night the Great Fire destroyed Chicago — October 9, 1871 — courage and cooperation couldn't conquer disaster. For . . . on that fateful night the business district of Urbana was ravaged by fire. Because . . . the little city had no adequate fire protection.

Bucket brigades from the Boneyard . . . the efforts of every able-bodied man and boy . . . were not enough. A large part of the Urbana business district was destroyed.

From those ashes arose a new and better Urbana. Now Urbana has adequate fire protection in her four trucks: 2 pumpers, 1 aerial-ladder, 1 emergency truck with resuscitator and with emergency lighting to help combat fire. The trucks carry two-way radios . . . for emergency communication.

Tied in with the fire departments of the University of Illinois and the city of Champaign . . . Urbana's Fire Department offers safety . . . protection of property . . . and assurance to Urbana's citizens.

Urbana's Schools . . .

Built of rough-hewn logs . . . equipped with a huge fire-place and greased-paper windows . . . the first school in the county — 1832 — was two miles east of Urbana . . . out near the old Brumley place.

Asahel Bruer . . . who taught this school for 18 months . . . introduced the custom of Christmas gifts for the students. On Christmas Day in 1832, Mr. Bruer went to school . . . only to find the students inside and himself locked out. Bruer, however, was a man of imagination. He climbed to the roof . . . tore off some clapboards . . . clapped them over the chimney . . . and smoked out his student-quarry.

After wrestling in the snow with the older students . . . Mr. Bruer gave his students a bushel of apples. And . . . school was held as usual.

From that rough-hewn log cabin, Urbana's school system — now District 116 — has grown to 9 elementary buildings, a junior high school, and a high school. Nearly 5,000 students are now served by a staff of 200 certified and 98 non-academic personnel.

Urbana's Parks . . .

Back in the "good old days" . . . when Urbana was in her youth . . . a steam boat offered cruises on old Crystal Lake in Union Park. Mr. J. K. Wallick, owner of the Union Park, advertised it as "The most beautiful and pleasant resort in the state for picnics and pleasure parties."

But . . . the drainage ditches came along . . . to make the land productive. As ditches drained the land, they also caused Crystal Lake almost to disappear. It became a small, marshy pond. To preserve at least a semblance of old Crystal Lake, canals were dredged to replace it.

Through the efforts of Professor Joseph Cullen Blair of the University of Illinois and Attorney Franklin H. Boggs, the Urbana Park District was created by a vote of the people in 1907. The first park commissioners were Professor Blair, David C. Busey, Justin S. Hall, Charles D. Rourke, and Edward Buckbee.

From its beginnings in 1907, the Park District has developed into a vital part of Urbana's efforts to provide her citizens and friends with pleasant facilities for rest . . . relaxation . . . recreation.

The Park Board now offers a summer and winter recreation program for Urbana's people and their guests. In the summer, trained leaders are provided to supervise activities in each of the parks. Leal Park, since it is so small, has no organized activities. It is offered, instead, to those who seek rest . . . reflection.

The summer program offers baseball, basketball, and softball . . . tennis, badminton, shuffle board, horseshoes . . . dancing, dramatics, handicraft, singing, story telling . . . picnics, track meets . . . pet shows, family nights, movies . . . and a carnival round-up.

Urbana's Churches . . .

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:
He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness
for His name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou annointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

THE LORD'S PRAYER

Our Father which art in heaven,
Hallowed be thy name.
Thy Kingdom come.
Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven.
Give us this day our daily bread.
And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors.
And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil.
For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever.—Amen.

Once lush farm land . . . then the site of the first church building in the county . . . now a parking lot. Such is the tale of Lot 51 of the original town of Urbana.

Across from the fire station . . . behind the Urbana-Lincoln Hotel . . . before either was thought or dreamed of . . . stood the first Urbana church—Methodist Episcopal. Urbana now has churches of most denominations.

The University Of Illinois . . .

The popular demand that higher education be made available to all who wanted it originated in Illinois. Mr. Jonathan Baldwin Turner of Jacksonville was one of the leaders of this movement. Mr. Turner was so sincere in his efforts to obtain a state-supported university for Illinois that he refused to be considered by the original Board of Trustees for the position as first Regent of the University . . . lest his efforts be misconstrued.

The most illustrious of all of Illinois' citizens also helped make higher education available to those who wished to seek it. The signature of President Abraham Lincoln set the "Land Grant College Act" (Morrill Act) in motion . . . to expand the educational opportunities for America's youth . . . to assist in the development of many of America's great universities -- including the University of Illinois.

Chartered in 1867, Illinois Industrial University opened its doors on March 2, 1868. In 1885 the name was changed to the University of Illinois. The University's first faculty was composed of three men. Today, the University employs nearly 10,000 faculty and staff on the Urbana-Champaign campus . . . to serve the University's mission of education, research, and service.

When the University first opened, the enrollment was 50 male students. No co-eds were admitted until 1870. Nearly 20,000 men and women are now enrolled at the Urbana-Champaign campus.

The first Regent, John Milton Gregory, was not in favor of women attending the University. However, in March, 1870, the Board of Trustees - - in a meeting at the University - - decided that women should be allowed to attend.

The Illini Union Building

But . . . the Trustees had no opportunity to announce their decision to the all-male student body. A group of students . . . who knew the subject was to be discussed at the Board meeting . . . learned of the decision as soon as the Board had voted. For . . . interested as the student men were in the possibility of a co-educational university . . . they listened to the Board meeting through a "stove-pipe hole" in the room where the meeting was held.

The Trustees' decision so delighted the students that they forgot they were eavesdropping. Their uproar of approval filtered back to the Trustees . . . . through the same "stove-pipe hole."

At the original university . . . subjects were limited to agriculture, engineering, the arts, and the then-known sciences. Today, over 1900 courses in most areas of learning are offered at the Urbana-Champaign campus. And . . . in the desire to serve all the people of the state . . . an extension program has been developed. Nearly 4,000 individuals in 62 counties are served annually through the University's extension service.

From its original one building and rather small campus . . . the University has grown until it now has a 448-acre campus in Urbana-Champaign. Adjoining this main campus, the University has 1,698 acres of experimental farm land. In keeping with its growth and progress, the University now has its own 770-acre airport . . . its own radio, television, and publication facilities . . . and operates farms in 33 counties. Robert Allerton Park at Monticello was given to the University. It is now used as the setting for conferences and extension Institutes. The University's plant and equipment . . . developed since Urbana first gave a seminary building as a site for the University . . . are now valued at more than $150,000,000.

Early-day students did not have the facilities nor the advantages that present -day students enjoy. Many of the first Illini had to eke out an existence to get through the University. But . . . the early day administrators devised a means of helping students . . . and, at the same time, of developing the University. Students in those days had to make a personal contribution to the development of the University. All students were required . . . by order of a realistic Board of Trustees . . . to do manual labor for two hours daily.

For this labor . . . the students were paid 15 cents an hour. But . . . since many students prepared their own meals in their dormitory rooms at a cost of about $4 a month . . . the wages received helped some students through school. And . . . since the work done by these students helped develop the campus . . . their contribution to the University is immeasurable.

The Future . . . Unlimited!

For more than half a century . . . the Urbana Association of Commerce has assisted in providing the kind of civic leadership which offers the city's residents a personal . . . individual opportunity to take part in the progress of Urbana and Champaign County.

Dedicated to the concept that ideas and men are the raw materials for progress, the Association has endeavored to develop a unified community perspective . . . for use as a working and effective program for civic committees.

More and better jobs have resulted from the Association's efforts to speed up industrial growth of Urbana. Greater civic growth has been developed through the cooperation of Urbana's citizens and her civic leadership. A better Urbana—a growing and progressive community—has resulted from the mutual endeavors of all the City's citizens.

As the years have passed, the services of the Association to its members and to the community have increased. But . . . the objects of the Association . . . stated in the By-laws have not changed. The Association's dedication to the betterment of Urbana is presented to you in this statement of purpose:

> "The object for which it is formed . . . The Association of Commerce of Urbana . . . is to promote manufacturing and civic interests of the city of Urbana; to advance the agricultural interests of the county; to develop a unified public spirit in all, whereby we may put forth a unified effort in aid of our city and county to make them more prosperous, more beautiful and better places in which to live."

Based on continuing dedication to its purpose, the Urbana Association of Commerce has developed a new program—Pattern for Progress. Through this program the Association is working—with the united efforts of individual citizens—to provide more opportunity for youth . . . an even better "job-and-home" town for parents . . . a pleasant and interesting city for visitors . . . and a stable and productive economy for the community.

Through the application of the personal talents and skills of Urbana's citizens . . . united into an effective community effort . . . the Friendly City of Urbana will provide for herself a "Future Unlimited."
